JACK HARBERTSON WAS NOT THROWN

Jack Harbertson, the local middleweight wrestler, has signed an agreement to throw Tom Long, the southern wrestler and Arthur Chester, the Pocahontas man, who threw Long last Monday night. The bout will be staged at the Orpheum theater on the night of December 30th.

Harbertson agrees to throw both his opponents in an hour and a half and whether he accomplishes the feat or not, the fans will be assured of the fastest 90 minutes of wrestling that they have ever seen, for Long and Chester are grapplers of no mean ability. The Ogden man knows that he has a hard task before him in the coming match and will go into it in the best of form. Tom Long is training hard to get into good form as he realizes that lack of being in condition lost him his recent match with Chester and he will do his utmost to try to come back. Chester is already in the pink of condition and is clever enough to give Harbertson a lot of trouble.

Much indignation has been aroused among the local fans over the statements in the Salt Lake papers concerning the Jim Harbertson-Waine Ketonen bout which was staged at Park City. In this bout Jim Harbertson, a young wrestler from Ogden, was defeated by the Finn in a hard match. Instead of reporting the match correctly, the Salt Lake sporting writers, without exception, substituted the name of Jack Harbertson for that of his brother, with the deliberate intention, as generally believed in Ogden, of injuring Jack's reputation. A promise was made to rectify the mistake, but this has not been done. Whether it is rectified or not the Ogden middleweight will continue to demonstrate that he is one of the best wrestlers in his class.

Jack Harbertson will wrestle Jack Heltz tonight at Granite Heltz is not known to any extent in Ogden but is reported to have victories over several good wrestlers.

THEATERS

AT THE ORPHEUM

There is plenty of music on the Pantage's vaudeville bill that opened at the Orpheum theater, yesterday afternoon, and every bit of it is pleasing.

The headliner is a real miniature musical entitled "A Winning Miss" and is complete in every detail even to the intimation of a plot and the duet of the lovers in the moonlight. The comedy is in one act and the scene is set at the lake front of the Chicago Yacht club. It is well staged and costumed and the company is up to a standard rarely seen at popular prices.

The chief comedy role, that of J. Barrington Ham, is in the capable hands of Johnny Phillips, with J. E. Coglan, as Captain Mike McGinnity, running a close second in the appreciation of the audience. Johnny Gilmore, as Billy Brown, displays a fine bass voice to good advantage in several numbers and Grace Manlove, as "The Winning Miss," sings and acts in a charming manner. Every moment of the comedy was much enjoyed by yesterday's audience.

Proval, a truly remarkable ventriloquist, came in for a large share of the encores at yesterday's performance and they were all deserved. He presents a new idea in his line of entertainment by whistling popular songs and imitating the cries of different birds and animals in a most realistic manner. All of his work is done with a cigar in his mouth and he proves most conclusively that no mechanical device is used in his work.

The announcement that a piano accordion player was a feature of the bill would of itself create considerable interest for that musical instrument received its introduction last year and the player made a tremendous hit. Santucci, a master of the instrument is on the program this week and runs the gamut of popular music from opera to ragtime in a manner that won him numerous recalls.

Keit and Demont, acrobatic comedians, present some new stunts in their line, using their acrobatic propensities in some expert step dancing. During their entire act they kept the audience laughing with some new comedy dialogue.

The Collette Trio, billed as the Kubeliks of vaudeville, present a pleasing opening act. The trio includes two violinists, not fiddlers—and a pianist. They played a number of popular and classical solos, duets and trios. Their rendition, in particular of Nevin's "The Rosary" has rarely been equaled on a local stage and at its conclusion they received an ovation of applause.

The work of the Orpheum orchestra in two special numbers was also appreciated.

NEW MAN ON THE O. S. L. RAILROAD

Evidence of increased business of the Oregon Short Line is seen in the augmentation of the operating force of the Idaho division of the company. Effective last Monday, the Idaho division, considered one of the largest railroad divisions in the country, will be handled under the direction of three men.

A. B. Stevenson, superintendent of the division, will continue in office with his headquarters in Pocatello as at present. He will exercise general control over the division, but the active detail work will be supervised by two assistants instead of one as heretofore. The division, which extends from Granger, Wyo., to Huntington, Ore., and includes 1213 miles of track, has been divided into four districts.

Districts 1 and 2, which lie between Granger and Pocatello and include the yards at each city, are under the direction of W. A. McGovern, assistant superintendent, whose appointment went into effect Monday, and districts 3 and 4, from Pocatello to Huntington, are controlled by J. F. Barnes, assistant superintendent, with headquarters in Nampa.

Mr. McGovern, who is the only new man appointed in making the change in the management of the division, came from the Southern Pacific, where he was in the construction department for years.

He has also had experience in the operating department, having been superintendent of a division on the Southern Pacific for a short time before entering the construction department.

DEMOCRATIC POLICY IN THE PHILIPPINES

Bishop Brent has discovered the failure of the United States in our fifteen-year struggle with the Moros. Perhaps he may go a little farther and, when he learns the wise program for dealing with these people, by Mabini, the wise statesman of Aguinaldo's government, he may conclude that, as in other matters, the Philippines can be left to deal with their own problems, to the relief of the United States and the advantage of the problems!

Dr. McDill, a thirteen years' resident in the Philippines, gave advice at Mobok's his thrilling note, recognized as such even in that temperate and polite debating society.

"Signs of revolt among the Filipinos if they existed, were but due to our failure to declare a policy in regard to independence. Is this country prepared to fight another country for the islands, or to take up arms against the Filipinos themselves should they revolt? The people are wider apart than ever. One can drive a horse to water, but one can't make him drink."—Erving Winslow in National Monthly.

RADIUM CURES CANCER.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 16.—Stimulus has been given to the movement for a radium bank in this city by the announcement made last night by Dr. Howard A. Kelly of Johns Hopkins university and Dr. Robert Abbe of New York that the word cure can now be properly applied to the radium form of treatment of cancer.

Physicians expressed belief that the power of the Gamma rays of radium over certain forms of cancer is not only wonderful, but almost unbelievable.

Dr. Kelly exhibited photographs of patients before and after being cured and told of the cure in forty-eight hours of a man suffering from malignant cancerous growths of the face and head.

The physicians were careful to state that the cure can at present be applied only to superficial cancer in its early stages. What the mysterious element may accomplish in advanced and internal cases is a matter for further experiment, they said.

IRISH POTATOES MAY BE BARRED

Fear of Importation of Dangerous Plant Diseases May Stop Admission.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Whether common Irish potatoes from Canada, New Foundland, Great Britain, Ireland and continental Europe shall be barred from the United States because of the danger of importation of dangerous plant diseases, or shall be admitted under the same restrictions as apply to nursery stock, was the subject of a hearing today before the federal horticultural board at the direction of Secretary Houston.

T. P. Gill, secretary of agriculture for Ireland; Dr. H. T. Gussow, an expert of the Canadian department of agriculture, and G. F. O'Halloran, deputy minister of agriculture of Canada, were among those who spoke in favor of the admission of foreign potatoes.

Representations have been made to the American department of agriculture, that in view of the short domestic potato crop caused by last summer's drought, the exclusion of foreign potatoes would go far toward raising prices in the United States. At the outset, Secretary Houston said the question under consideration was not the lifting of an embargo against diseased potatoes, but whether a quarantine should be absolute, or administered in such a way as to admit the entry of potatoes properly passed on by government experts.

Senators Protest.
Senators and representatives in congress from many states, protested against any policy whereby diseased potatoes might get into the country. A few members, however, urged that it would be wise to permit the entry of foreign potatoes in the hope of reducing high prices of food.

Dr. Gussow, declared that United States experts had not made a sufficient investigation of the potato crop in his country on which to base a recommendation that the whole crop should be barred from this country because of disease. He said American agents had gone into Canada to investigate potato diseases without co-operating with him.

Among those who urged an unrestricted quarantine to protect the American crop of potatoes, even should it result in higher prices to a few were Senator Brady, Idaho and Representatives Taylor and Seldomridge of Colorado.

FARMERS DECEIVED BY SEED DEALERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—There has recently been a considerable amount of advertising, by the press and otherwise, of two beans for which highly extravagant claims are made, and for the seed of which exorbitant prices are being asked. One of these is being advertised under the name of the Shaloon pea, with the absurd claim that on three and one-half acres this plant produced 70 tons of hay and 350 bushels of seed.

The Shaloon pea is nothing more nor less than the plant properly known as the asparagus bean or yard-long bean. It is a close relative of the cowpea—in fact, by most botanists considered a variety of it. In experimental tests with upward of 20 varieties of asparagus bean this department reached the conclusion that none of them could possibly compete with the better varieties of cowpeas as a forage crop. The stems, as a rule, are much more slender and vining, and the long pods, which lie on the ground, can not be harvested by machinery. None of these 20 varieties is as productive, either in herbage or in pods, as the better varieties of cowpeas.

The asparagus bean derives its name from the fact that the young green pods, when used as a vegetable, have somewhat the flavor of asparagus. As a vegetable the asparagus bean may come into some what more general use than it has in the past, but as a forage crop it has but little merit. Seed of the Shaloon pea, which apparently is the commonest variety as asparagus bean—namely, that having pinkish-buff seeds—was offered by the advertisers at $5 per pound. The same variety of seed offered by seedsmen in France, where the bean is more or less commonly grown, for 25 cents a pound.

Another plant which has been thoroughly tested, both by the department and the experiment stations—namely, the Jack bean—is also being extravagantly advertised, under the name of the Giant Stock Pod bean, or the Watake bean, the seed being quoted at $15 per bushel.

While the Jack bean produces an enormous amount of beans per acre, they are not relished by stock, and no satisfactory means of utilizing them has yet been discovered.

MACKAY OPPOSES SEC. BURLERSON

New York, Dec. 18.—Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph & Cable company, today issued sweeping condemnation of Postmaster General Burleson's plan for government ownership of telephones and telegraphs.

Theodore N. Vall, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, has likewise taken a public stand against the postmaster general's plan.

Mr. Mackay's statement, which was called forth by a request for his views on the postmaster general's plan, follows:

"The postmaster general is mistaken in his idea that telephone companies are subject to the postroad act of congress of 1868. The supreme court of the United States, in the Richmond case (174 U. S. 761), held that they are not.

Not Monopolistic.
"In denouncing the telegraph business as being 'monopolistic in its nature' he is also mistaken. If there ever has been more continuous, keen and even bitter competition than that between the Postal and the Western Union I would be pleased to know when and where.

"The money question, however, is the main question; $900,000,000 would not be a look-in. The Bell Telephone companies alone would demand more than that. Then there are the thousands of independent telephone companies and farmers' lines scattered all over the country. The entire bill including telephone lines, would be about $2,000,000,000, which is about two-thirds of the national debt at the close of the civil war, when many intelligent men despaired of the solvency of the republic."

ROADS TO RAISE FREIGHT RATES

Washington, Dec. 18.—The International News Service has authority for the positive statement that the railroads are to be allowed to increase their freight rates 5 per cent.

This is true of the eastern lines between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic coast and north of the Ohio river.

A majority of the interstate commerce commission is convinced of the necessity of "doing something" for the roads. The president has also taken up the question and personally analyzed the reports of railroad earnings and expenses.

One of the railroad experts of the government went to the White House this week with statistics. He found President Wilson had worked out the figures for himself and knew more about them than the expert.

The president was deeply concerned over the widespread report of poor business in many industries. He remarked that railroads cannot order adequate rails and steel cars unless they earn the money to pay for them. With credit impaired they cannot borrow.

The decision as to rates rests with the interstate commerce commission. They are not unanimous, but it has been decided to hasten the hearings and the decision, and this in itself indicates that the commissioners are going to "let up on the railroads a little," for the sake of general prosperity, as one of them expressed it.

HE EXPECTS TO CATCH LOPEZ

Sheriff is Now Paying a Waiting Game at Bingham Mine.

Bingham, Utah, Dec. 18.—Excepting for the presence of the guards at the Utah-Apex mine, one would not suspect that a man hunt was in progress here. True, the oft-repeated question on the streets is, "What is now about Lopez?" and just as often the answer is, "Nothing." All of which about describes the situation.

Sheriff Smith is of the opinion that the Mexican is in the shut-off portion of the workings and is more than ever determined that no move shall be made to remove the bulkheads until it becomes reasonably certain that the man is not inside. There have been no signs of the man for two days—not since the guards reported hearing noises at the bulkheads. The theory that smoke was seen issuing from the tunnels and that the bandit may have built a fire was discredited with the discovery that it was only vapor such as comes from the tunnels with atmospheric changes.

Some excitement was caused this morning when a telegraph operator reported that he had "spoken" with another operator in Salt Lake, who in turn had been in communication with Mack, Colo., and that "Lopez" had been arrested there in a half-crazed condition by the depot agent.

The man was described as resembling the published descriptions of the much wanted bandit and was said to have in his pockets letters addressed to Lopez. He also had with him two six-shooters and a rifle. A telegram direct from Mack, however, proved the original rumor to have been erroneous. The man arrested was half-crazed, was dressed somewhat like Lopez, the bandit, is supposed to be, and did have the guns and papers in his pockets addressed to "Lopez." But the man is named V. C. Lopez, and is a sheep herder employed about twenty miles from Mack.

Lopez—the shepherd—it developed, had walked from the ranch on E. D. Blodgett and arrived at the Mack depot about 2 o'clock this morning and took possession. When he was trapped he flourished his gun. He was recovered and tied with ropes until Sheriff Schrader of Mesa county arrived and took him to Grand Junction.

It was rumored that he might have done some shooting before leaving his home ranch, but nothing definite was learned here today.

In yesterday's local option election of about 650.
It is anticipated that this will be increased to more than 700. The city of Pocatello was "wet" by close to 700 majority, but the country vote went much more "dry" than last year. The city was "wetter" than usual, but charges of fraud are made by the "dry" leaders against the practice of allowing registration by oath of a freeholder on election day. They claim that negroes and foreigners were sworn in who are not legitimate voters. They also charge that there was repeating of some of these sworn voters in the different precincts.
